At the annual meeting of the Mt. Zion Society Monday the old officers were re-elected as follows:

H. A. Gailard, President.

A. S. Douglas, Senior Warden.

J. O. Davis, Junior Warden.

T. H. Ketchin, Secretary.

On the request of the Board of Trustees of the school district, permission was given them to place the old Methodist church building upon the school grounds for the purpose of supplying the necessary additional room for school purposes for another year.

The trustees reported that another teacher would be added to the Mt. Zion faculty another year with the probability of there being two additional teachers. The school enrollment this year has gone much higher than any previous year.

Decorating the Graves.

The crosses for marking the soldiers' graves are being put in place. Next Wednesday is the 10th, and while we will have no further public ceremonies on that day, let the committees in charge of the cemeteries see that the annual offering of flowers is laid upon these graves.

It was a gratification that so many of the veterans got in to hear Dr. Smith's fine talk on Stonewall Jackson, and we regretted that the hours for the reception to these distinguished guests could not have been arranged for the forenoon, so they could have shared that pleasure also.

The Daughters in each church will see that the flowers are provided, and taken to the church yards. There will be no further meeting of the chapter for May.

A MEMORIAL HOSPITAL.

Magnificent Institution Of This Character Offered South Carolina—Columbia's Chance.

Columbia will probably have an opportunity to secure a charity hospital costing about $1,000,000, the erection of which, it is understood, is contemplated by a former South Carolinian, now one of the wealthiest physicians of New York city.

The report is that Dr. Herman B. Baruch, of New York city is investigating desirable points in this State with a view of placing such a hospital at the most desirable point. This charity hospital will be a memorial to his late father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. Simon Baruch, formerly residents of Georgetown.

For such a hospital Columbia offers many and superior advantages, as the climate conditions are ideal, and with the steady growth of this city and State of South Carolina at large, such an institution located at Columbia would mean much. This was brought out at a meeting yesterday at which the situation was discussed.

The medical fraternity, as well as the Columbia people, will offer every inducement possible to Dr. Baruch in order to secure this memorial to his father and mother, former South Carolinians.

Columbia's railroad facilities should figure largely in the selection of a city for the erection of such an institution. Three trunk railway lines extend through the city, and other lines make access easy and quick to any South Carolina point.

Physicians of the State have availed themselves of the present hospital facilities offered in Columbia. However, with the increasing growth of the community, present facilities are not ample.

Information as to the erection of this memorial reached the city as a rumor; however, it is known that there has been a meeting of the medical fraternity to outline the advantages of this city and offer such inducements as would attract Dr. Baruch's attention favorably to Columbia.—The State, May 3rd.
